Editorial By Alex. H. WASHBURN

THE question of putting their business affairs in good order is placed squarely before the county governments in Monday's decision of the Arkansas Supreme Court. Earlier this month the court had ruled that contractual claims incurred in a year in which the county exceeded its revenue could not be paid out of the revenue of the year following. But on Monday the court went further. It said that this prohibition applied also to statutory claims—and that order struck out the unpaid claims of the circuit court. That is our record in local government: First financial stringency; then bankruptcy; and finally paralysis of the very machinery of justice which guards human life and liberty and property rights.

Travel Days Over for Edward; "Saw World" 15 Years

Earlier Journeys for Fun—Later Trips in Empire's Interest

COOLIDGE'S GUEST

American Visitor in 1924—Then to Africa and South America

Days of travel are virtually over for King Edward VIII, but before he ascended the British throne he had visited almost every corner of the earth. In the fifth of a series of six stories, Milton Bronner, NEA Service European correspondent, here tells of the globe-touring experiences of Edward when he was Prince of Wales.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
LONDON—Because it will be almost impossible for him to travel much in the future, it is well that Edward VIII was already one of the world's most-traveled men before he assumed the crown.

After the World war he launched on a series of long journeys which took him to every corner of the earth and to almost every part of the British empire.

In 1919, he made a trip to the United States which assured him the personal interest of that country. After a typical ticker-tape New York welcome, he went to Washington and spent a half hour with the invalid President Wilson, climbing the stairs to the second-floor bedroom where the stricken president lay.

Then he went on to Canada and bought the great ranch there which he has operated ever since, frequently sending to it blooded stock from his English farms in an effort to improve Canadian stock raising.

In 1920, the prince visited the West Indies, went through the Panama Canal and on to Australia and return.

In 1921 came a trip to India, China, and Japan, with return via Borneo.

In 1922, he went again to Canada to visit his ranch.

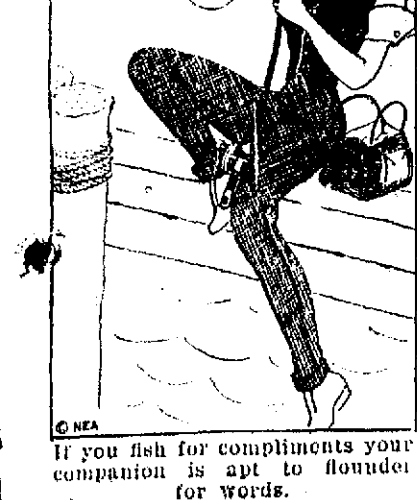

Lunches With Coolidge, Dances With U. S. Debs

In 1921, he again visited both Canada and the United States. Traveling this time incognito, he attended the British-American polo matches on Long Island and stayed there three weeks with friends. It was during this trip that he lunched at the White House with President Coolidge and

Lill D. Jamison Fatally Burned Here

Her Dress Catches Fire From Heater; 2 Sisters Burned

Mrs. Sid Henry, Mrs. Cora Jamison, Injured Going to Her Aid

LIVES FEW HOURS

Succumbs at 1 p. m. Following Tragic Accident Monday Morning

Miss Lill D. Jamison, 521 South Main street, died at 1 p. m. Monday from burns about the body sustained five and a half hours earlier when her clothing ignited from a gas heater in the kitchen of her home.

Her sister and sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry, society editor of The Star, and Mrs. Cora Jamison, were painfully burned in a frantic attempt to extinguish the flames.

Miss Jamison was alone when her clothing caught fire, believed to have ignited when she stood too close to the gas heater. Agonizing screams attracted Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Jamison. Mrs. Henry was burned about the hands, breast and neck. Mrs. Jamison was severely burned about the hands.

Miss Jamison was born in Hope and had spent practically her entire life here. She was the daughter of the late William David Jamison and Mary Virginia Jamison, who came to Hope in 1873. Miss Jamison was a member of First Christian church.

From the home Monday afternoon it was announced that funeral services would be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday with the Rev. Guy D. Holt, pastor of First Christian church, in charge. The funeral will be held from the family residence, 521 South Main.

Active pallbearers: Lloyd Coop, Fredrick Children, Jimmy Harbison, L. Bell, Jr., Don Reynerson, Roy Hendrix.

Honorary pallbearers: Dr. Charles Champlin, J. M. Harbison, L. T. Bell, Sr., J. A. Davis, C. S. Lowthorp, Jim Gordon, J. A. Sullivan, Charles Rounton, E. F. McFadden, Dr. P. B. Carrigan, Dr. G. E. Cannon, R. T. White, K. G. McRae, E. S. Greening and W. W. Duckett.

Mrs. Lykins had made her home with her daughter for some time. Names of the immediate survivors were not learned.

Mrs. Root Says Husband Beat Her

Declares He "Tortured" Her With Stories of Other Women

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Mrs. Daisy Alexander Root, on trial for the murder of her husband, Brenton Root, a minister's son, testified over the week-end that he was the only man that she ever loved. However she charged that he tortured her with tales of his affair with other women and "beat" her "time after time."

The prosecution introduced her purloined confession in which she said that she killed her husband because of his attention to a red-haired night club "cigarette girl."

She did not complete her testimony. She said she separated from her husband in April "because he made it impossible for me to love him any longer." She said she took over her son, George, with her.

Mrs. Root said Root talked to her frequently afterward of Lucille Underwood, 19-year-old "cigarette girl," over whom they quarreled at a night club a few hours before the killing.

Once, she said, she agreed to go back to her husband after he promised he would "be good to me," and "not see Lucille Underwood again."

Circuit Court's Cost "Outlawed" in 'Broke' County

Supreme Court Throws Out Overdrawn County Statutory Claims

BUSH IS REVERSED

High Decision Affects Quantity of Hempstead County Claims

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court held Monday that the cost of holding circuit court can not be paid if all of the county revenues for the fiscal year have been expended.

The tribunal suggested that county judges budget their finances so as to assure having funds for holding court. The decision reversed a ruling of Circuit Judge Dexter Bush at Texarkana, who had previously held that court expenses must be paid even though the yearly revenue had been consumed.

The court upheld a $15,000 judgment given Glen Carmical, of Hope, against the Hobbs Western company. Carmical's arm was amputated at a Texarkana hospital in 1934 after cross-ties carried on a Hobbs Western truck struck it as the truck and Carmical's car passed.

Affects Hempstead

Monday's supreme court decision will have the effect of outlawing a quantity of statutory claims, to cover which there was insufficient revenue in Hempstead county last year, but The Star was unable to reach County Judge H. M. Stephens Monday afternoon in time for a statement.

The judge has estimated that creditors of the county government will lose between $4,500 and $5,000 in claims on file December 31, 1935. The supreme court outlawed contractual claims in a decision earlier this month, and Monday's decision on statutory claims is regarded as completing the outlawing of the entire amount of the county's overdraft—although this can not be confirmed until the judge makes a statement.

Eighty-seven Paragould residents sent ballots, and 41 of these endorsed Roosevelt politics while 46 opposed. In the 1934 poll, 54 at Paragould opposed the administration, while only 19 were against it.

Where Indiana Family of 11 Died in Train Crash

A car of death, in which a Leo, Ind., WPA worker, and his wife, and nine children—including a baby born at the moment of the crash—were hurled to their deaths by a speeding passenger train at Graceland, Ind., is shown, demolished, near the tracks. The family was returning from the funeral of a relative when the car driven by the father, Marion McBride, 43, stalled on the tracks as the train approached. A 5-year-old daughter, carried 1100 feet on the locomotive's cowcatcher, is the only survivor. A theory that the father, brooding over his poverty, deliberately brought about mass suicide, is being probed.

Robinson to Reply to Smith Tuesday

Majority Leader Will Broadcast His Answer at 9:45 o'Clock

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A cheering Democratic house told Alfred E. Smith Monday not "to take a walk in Philadelphia—he took his walk in Chicago."

Chiding the former party presidential nominee for his threat to "take a walk" right at the time when his own admission the country in danger, Representative Woodrum, Virginia Democrat, wanted to know if that procedure had been followed by Jefferson, Jackson, Cleveland or Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The re-election of President Roosevelt was considered "more certain than ever" by Speaker Byrns.

Robinson to Reply

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—New Deal bitterness over the attack of Alfred E. Smith neared a battle point over the week-end with a counter-attack set for Tuesday.

Smith's speech before an American Liberty League dinner audience Saturday night left unanswered the question whether he would go beyond his indicated intention of taking a "walk" during the campaign and work for a deep party schism, or whether his position alone would result in this end.

There was no question here, but that Smith's charges of Socialism, his snafu at "Washington or Moscow," and his assertion that his erstwhile friend, the president, had thrown most of the 1932 Democratic platform "in the wastebasket" would draw a retort.

Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader who went down to defeat as Smith's running mate against Herbert Hoover in 1928, was in his senate office Sunday preparing a reply.

The Columbia Broadcasting company, which carried Smith's speech Saturday night, made known that the Democratic National Committee had arranged time for Robinson Tuesday night from 9:45 to 10:15 (Hope time).

Robinson's refusal to say even a word about his feeling toward Smith or his speech, despite persistent newspaper inquiries, appeared obviously a storing up of his ammunition.

These points stood out:

1. Smith made clear that he did not intend to leave the Democratic party.
2. He said he would not "even lift my right hand to secure any nomination from any party at any time," but did not say unequivocally that he would not accept a nomination.
3. He called upon the party to "re-establish and rededicate the principles" of the 1932 Democratic platform.
4. He asserted that if the Democratic convention endorses the Democratic administration those who believe as he does could either become "hybrids" or "take a walk, and we will probably do the latter."
5. He urged Democrats in Congress to follow a six-point program, which "insisted for the most part of advice to do things he intimated they had been doing."

Air lines in the United States employ 197 young women as hostesses.

No court was held last week, due to the session of Hempstead county circuit court at Washington.

Senate Overrides President's Veto Monday 76 to 19

Big Democratic Majority Rolls Over Executive's Opposition

2 BILLION DOLLARS

Up to Congress to Provide Financing of Baby Bond Measure

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus was made a law by congress Monday over President Roosevelt's veto.

The senate with its big Democratic majority voted 76 to 19 to override the chief executive's veto.

The house smashed it down last week 324 to 61.

Passage raised the question of finding 2 billion 491 thousand dollars to meet the new drain on the Treasury. The bill, providing for payment of the 1945 maturity value of the bonus certificates in $50 bonds which could be cashed after June 15 or held for nine years to receive three per cent interest, originally passed the senate 74 to 16. Bonus leaders had given the opposition not more than 20 votes to sustain the executive, whereas 32 were needed to keep the bill from becoming law.

Senator Robinson, the majority leader, was expected to ignore the president's brief veto message in casting his vote. Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi had announced he would vote to override. Harrison's name appears on the legislation with Senators Byrns, Democrat, South Carolina; Steiwer, Republican, Oregon; and Clark, Democrat, Missouri.

Neutrality Bill

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The house foreign affairs committee approved Monday the administration's permanent neutrality bill by a 11-to-1 vote.

Supply Bill

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The house received Monday the $81,221,330 Interior Department supply bill from the appropriations committee.

The measure carries $990,000 for the new Bituminous Coal Commission as well as funds for other new activities in the next fiscal year.

The bill was more than 4 million dollars larger than the present year's measure, but more than a million dollars under budget estimates.

The Deed Is the Man

The dream is the babe in the loveliest nest
And the milking boy at play;
The dream is the youth with the old, old zest,
For now romance of the day,
Then the deed strides forth to the distant goal,
That has dazzled since life began,
For the dream is the child of the rampant soul,
But the deed is the man.
And the boast that would count them brave;
The dream is the honor that heroes wear,
And the glory that high hearts crave,
Then the deed gives battle to pride and self,
As only a conqueror can,
For the dream is the child of the better self,
But the deed is the man.

Travel Days Over

danced with many American debutantes.

In 1925, he journeyed to West Africa, South Africa, and South America.

In 1927 came another trip to Canada. In 1928 he was on a hunting trip to East Africa when news came of the grave illness of his father, King George V. The prince cut short the trip and hurried back to England and his father's bedside.

In 1930 he went again to East Africa. In 1932 came his famous trip to South America to open the British Trade Exposition in Buenos Aires. On the way he visited Bermuda, Jamaica, Peru, Bolivia, and Chile, and returned via Brazil, Gibraltar and Portugal.

Toured Mediterranean With British Fleet

This same summer, Edward made a complete tour of the Mediterranean with the British fleet, watching its maneuvers and often flying in its airplanes. He visited Malta and Corfu, and is thus personally familiar with the places now in the spotlight as friction increases between the British empire and Italy in that area.

The early journey, immediately after the war, had a two-fold purpose. One was to acquaint the prince with the dominions over which he was one day to reign. The other was to solidify the dominions and dependencies behind the British crown.

Some of them had given evidence of being less enthusiastic for British rule than once they were. The attractive personality of the prince helped to hold them in line.

It was on one of these earlier journeys that the prince crossed the equator for the first time. It is an old sea custom to "shave" and dunk such neophytes. The prince waived no exceptions made for himself.

Some of the old tars got themselves up in traditional costumes as King Neptune and his court. They gave the prince the collar of the order of those who have crossed the line.

The prince was ready for them. To their surprise and delight, on receiving the collar, he recited some verses of his own manufacture, beginning, "King Neptune, I am proud to wear

American Ice Skaters Facing Heavy Odds in 1936 Olympiad

Will Race Against Stop-Watch, Not Actual Opponents—and Foreign Aces Are Known to Be Good

By NEA Service

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany.—The Greeks had a name for it—the Olympics. But back in 776 B. C., when the great athletic festival came into full swing, the worshipers of Zeus knew little of ice skating, bobsledding, hockey, and skiing, rather they tended to athletics in a climate that enabled them to wear loin clothes, or less.

But since 1924, winter games have held a place in the modern Olympics and here, from February 6 to 16, Uncle Sam will battle the best of the world.

Back in 1932, when the winter games were held at Lake Placid, Uncle Sam's charges annexed the bobsled and speed skating honors, leaving the hockey championship to Canada, the skiing glory to Sweden, Norway, and Finland, and the figure skating titles to Sonja Henie of Norway and Karl Schäfer of Austria.

Despite agitation against participation in the 1936 Olympics that arose in the United States a few months ago, Uncle Sam has shipped squads across to compete in all winter sports. The task that confronts these teams is Herculean, because they are invading a section where skiing, bobsledding, and skating are second nature, and where hockey is catching on like a forest fire.

Probably the most difficult assignment is that given the speed skating team. This squad, composed of Eddie Schroeder and Leo Freisinger, Chicago; Robert Peterson and Delbert Lamb, Milwaukee, and Allan W. Potts of New York, is faced with racing for the first time under a strange system.

Skaters Race Pop Time

The 1936 Olympic speed skating races will be run against time, with the competitor turning in the fastest time winning. This doesn't shape up with the style used in the 1932 races at Lake Placid, in which the man finishing first against the whole field was declared winner, and under which Jack Shea won the 500 and 1500-meter races, and Irving Jaffe the 5000 and 10,000-meter events.

Under the European style, all skaters are banded together. Two names are pulled from a hat and the two racers compete on the 400-meter track in a short race. The course is laid out in two lanes, separated by a wall of hard snow.

There is one break in the wall, and at that point the two competitors cross lanes and change. The elapsed time in covering the distance, after all duos have raced, determines the winner.

Americans, other than Eddie Schroeder, who was invited to skate in Oslo in 1933, and won only after he had mastered the European style of racing, are inexperienced in this type of skating. Although they have trained diligently under Bill Taylor, Olympic coach, in Norway, it is doubtful if they can master the new style of skating well enough to cope with such bladesmen as Ballangrud, Evensen, Stiepl, Wuzelick, and Mathiesen from the cold countries, who are experts at skating against time.

Schroeder U. S. Hope

Even at the odds the Americans are battling, it appears that the light for honors rests between Norway and the United States, as it did in 1932.

The Americans have two expert skaters of Olympic experience in Potts and Schroeder, and the latter is acquainted with the European system. If they can stave off the challenges of the cold country relatives, they may turn the tables and win a couple of races and some points for Uncle Sam.

In the field of figure skating, the outlook is nearly as dark as in the speed skating division. America's main reliance is on the two national title winners, Maribel Y. Vinson of Boston, and 15-year-old Robin Lee of St. Paul.

Both these skaters have real talent, but compared with such stars as Sonja Henie and Karl Schäfer, they seem unequal to the task.

Europe is the place where figure skating originated. Germany, France, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and England long have considered the art of cutting capers on the curved blades as poetic pagantry, and it is improbable that the American team—others on the squad are Erle Reiter, George E. B. Hill, Lester Madden, Audrey Peppé, Louise and Estelle Weigel, and Grace Madden—can win an event that has been taken by representatives from Austria, Norway, Sweden, and France since its inception.

NEXT: Bobsledding.

North Carolina is believed to have virtually a monopoly on the mineral pyrophyllite, used extensively in the manufacture of chinaware and lead pencils.

As a good drummer, he talked up British goods, and the results already have been apparent in British trade figures in South America.

NEXT: The king who might have been a Socialist. How Edward's increasing consciousness of social problems shocked the Tories of England and forecasts a new kind of king.

16 Million Acres May Be Retired

Cotton, Corn and Wheat "Surplus" Would Be Planted in Grass

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Agriculture

Department experts have completed a preliminary survey recommending that 16,000,000 acres devoted to cotton, corn and wheat should be planted in grass and trees.

Authoritative sources said this may guide the administration in carrying out a new farm program under soil conservation-AAA substitute legislation now before Congress.

With Secretary Wallace to appear before a senate committee for questioning on constitutionality of the new bill, there were indications that more changes would be demanded.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, predicted that congress would not accept the present measure, which would continue subsidies to farmers for "economic use" of land, and the first redraft, which Senator Murphy, Democrat, Iowa, said "increased" constitutional debts as to expanded powers given the secretary of agriculture.

Wallace has said approximately 35,000,000 acres in cotton, corn and wheat should be planted in grass or trees to control erosion. The survey has covered only states in the heart of the cotton, corn and wheat belts. The remainder of the land mentioned by Wallace but not included in the survey is located in border states.

By mild ripe tobacco we mean just this—

FIRST—ripened in the sunshine... and picked leaf by leaf from the right part of the stalk when fully ripe.

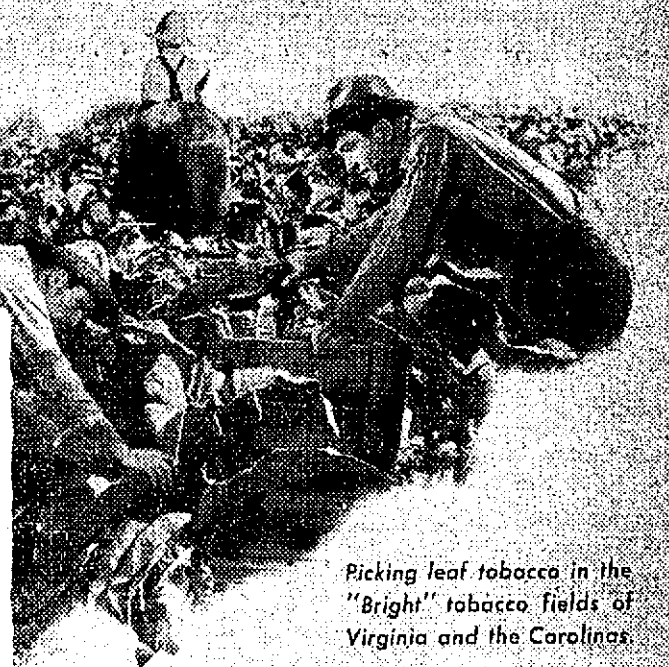

THEN—each day's picking cured right by the farmer... at the right time and in the right way... no "splotching" or brittleness, but every leaf of good color and flavor.

FINALLY—bought in the open market... re-dried for storage... then packed in wooden hogsheads to age and mellow for two years or more until free from harshness and bitterness.

That's what we mean by mild, ripe tobacco. And that's the kind of tobacco we use to give Chesterfields their milder, better taste.

Hogsheads of leaf tobacco "aging" for two years in storage warehouses.
